Between them, Senior Justice Warren Matthews (Ret.), former Justice Alex Bryner, Judge Beverly Cutler (Ret.), and Judge Victor Carlson (Ret.) have served the Alaska Court System for over 100 years. Each recently participated in an oral history interview as part of "Judges of Alaska: Project Jukebox," a special initiative to preserve the history of Alaska's judiciary led by the Oral History Program of the University of Alaska Fairbanks in conjunction with the Bar Historians Committee. Join us as the panelists explore, through interview clips and in-person reflections, the instances of public pressure during their judicial careers, the personal and professional impacts of public pressure, and the responses of the legal community.
