

Free legal help was a Success

On Jan. 17, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, there was a team of lawyers available to answer individual questions of members of the public for free. I arrived at the Juneau courthouse having many questions in vast areas of law, not sure of what kind of legal help I would be getting. Not only was it warm and inviting with some nice food to munch on, but very informative as well. This is a great way to help all members of society to ask and find good sound answers with different options. My questions got answered to the best of the attorneys' ability with no holding back for legal reasons. I would like to thank all the lawyers and staff who helped with this event. It was a success.
